

 Exercise 3

A conclusion can solve a problem and bring an end to the story. Write a conclusion to this story:

Yesterday, Marisa woke up late. Her alarm clock had broken! She was very upset, because she didn't want to be late for school. Quickly, she jumped out of bed, got dressed, and had some orange juice. Carrying a bagel in one hand and her school bag in the other, Marisa ran down Chestnut Street to the bus stop. After waiting for five minutes, she realized she had missed her bus.
